A public exhibit of youth art work will be shown May 28 through Dec. 1 in the Frances Hook Museum at the Old School, Mishicot. The exhibition is being done in cooperation with the Frances Hook Scholarship Fund. Area young people, kindergarten through grade 12, are invited to enter two art pieces (drawings, paintings, sketches) to the Old School by May 13. Participants will receive a Frances Hook button and ribbon. Students also are invited to be present at the Old School 10:30 a.m. June 16 to participate in photographs concerning the Hook project. A program on the life of the artist will follow. Art work may be picked up after Dec. 1. Delivering art to Carole Anderson of the Old School were Stephanie Valenta, left, daughter of Randy and Cheryl Valenta, and Corey Bauer, son of Dan and Kathy Bauer. Herald Times Reporter photo by Ron Hoerth